

TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award 2019 - Switzerland's 100 most-promising startups

(under embargo until 04.09.2019, 20:15 CEST)

Zurich/Lausanne, September 4th, 2019 – Swiss startups are playing in the global Champions League. That was the message at the TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award tonight, as an audience of more than 700 international investors, startups, corporates and startup experts celebrated Switzerland's top-ranked startups. The ninth edition of the TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award was presented in partnership with Credit Suisse, SVC, Swiss Prime Site, SECA and digitalswitzerland.

Global investment for world-leaders

TOP 100 startup alum GetYourGuide (3rd place, 2012) achieved unicorn status thanks to a $484 million funding round led by Japanese investors SoftBank, while Geneva's Amal Therapeutics (8th place, 2016) was acquired for €425 million by German pharmaceutical giant Boehringer Ingelheim. Several of this year's TOP 100 made headlines with financing rounds in the tens of millions, while deeptech companies such as Flyability, which leads the ranking this year, established themselves as world leaders in fast-growing markets. Bastian Zarske Bueno, head of Corporate Ventures at Swiss Prime Site confirmed the trend: "Many of the top 100 startups are already internationally sought-after technology and innovation partners, as well as attractive investment objects."

TOP 3 in 2019: the ultimate rivalry

Flyability, Lunaphore and Ava occupy the TOP 3 places, in a fierce, final rivalry in what is their last appearance in the TOP 100, having reached the age-limit for the ranking.

Winner Flyability (4th last year) is a prime example of Swiss tech's global appeal: With more than 350 customers across global markets, the EPFL-spinoff is the market leader for hazardous site inspections in the nuclear, energy, chemical and mining industries. The founders have raised more than CHF 15 million, as they seek to make Flyability the industry-standard inspection tool. Adrien Briod, co-founder and CTO, emphasized the importance the TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award played in establishing Flyability's credentials. "Our position in the TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award in the last years helped us build credibility with prospective investors and customers."

Runner-up Lunaphore (3rd last year) launched its first automated tissue diagnostic machine this year, targeting the industry's key opinion leaders. Collaborations with multi-billion-dollar global corporation PerkinsElmer and biomedical research firm Vitro, underline the potential of this startup's high-speed tissue-staining technology to revolutionize lab diagnostics and enable more personalized medicine.

Third-placed Ava Women (1st last year) enjoyed an impressive year of growth, as the fertility-tracking startup saw revenue exceed CHF 10 million, new offices in Hong Kong, and plans to expand into China. Leadership at the fertility data-tracker will pass to co-founder Lea von Bidder in January, as the startup's attention focuses on greater measurement of women's health.

A jury of 100 leading investors and experts rank the country's most-impactful startups. The TOP 100 Public Voting, which runs parallel to the expert ranking, was the public's chance to highlight an excellent Swiss startup. The winner of this year's public vote is GuestReady, based in the Appenzell town of Trogen (pop. 1,742), which offers management services to Airbnb hosts in 14 cities around the world.

Tracking the growth of Switzerland's scale-ups

New for this year's edition is the scale-up ranking. As startups cannot appear in the TOP 100 for more than 5 years after incorporation, the TOP 100 experts were also asked to select the TOP 25 scale-ups. These companies, aged five years or more, show the greatest potential for further growth. From VIU VENTURES counting 400 employees in 6 years, to Sophia Genetics opening 2019 with a 77-million-franc financing round, this ranking further illustrates the amazing potential shown by Swiss startups. "The TOP 100 startups all have the potential to develop into major global successes over the next 10 years," commented Andreas Gerber, Head of SME Business at Credit Suisse and President of the Swiss Venture Club.

Key facts and figures in 2019

- To date, the TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award has recognized a total of 397 startups.
- Cumulatively they have raised more than CHF 4.3 billion, with 42 exits and two IPOs.
- The TOP 100 startups represent more than 8,700 active jobs.
- 58 of the TOP 100 startups have women in management, including 25 as co-founders.

About the TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award

Each year since 2011, Venturelab has organized the TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award. The 100 most innovative and promising Swiss startups are picked by a panel of 100 leading investors and startup experts. Each one nominates 10 favorite Swiss startups, less than five years old, with the greatest commercial potential. The first-placed company gets 10 points, the second 9 and so on. All these individual rankings are compiled to generate the final TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award ranking, which therefore recognizes the startups that have most impressed all 100 jury members.

The TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award 2019 is supported by presenting partners Credit Suisse, SVC, Swiss Prime Site, SECA and digitalswitzerland.

Pictures from the award night will be shared in the media kit from 20:30 on Wednesday.

www.top100startups.swiss offers the German, French, English and Chinese editions of the TOP 100 Startup magazines, the full 2019 ranking, and more information about the TOP 100 Swiss Startup Award.
